Kodak shuffles some duties

Eastman Kodak Co. said that Senior Vice President Mary Jane Hellyar will take the added position of president for entertainment imaging effective Jan. 8. Hellyar will replace Eric Rodli, who is leaving the company. Kodak announced several organizational moves aimed at streamlining operations within its Film and Photofinishing Systems Group, which Hellyar also heads.

The moves will concentrate the group's responsibilities almost solely on film-related businesses. The group will consist of entertainment imaging, serving the motion picture industry; film capture, which sells film and one-time-use cameras; and aerial and industrial markets, which sells specialty films.
